PROFESSIONAL DESIGN TEAM TO DRAW INSPIRATION FROM DRAWINGS OF FUTURE CHINATOWN BLUE LINE STATION CREATED BY SCHOOL KIDS

WHAT: Come watch youngsters design their ideal Metro Rail station! MTA Metro Art is asking 275 third and fourth-grade students from Ann, Castellar and Solano elementary schools to draw colorful renditions of the future Chinatown Blue Line station. The station artist and architect will use these drawings as a source of inspiration for the station's final design. Selected drawings will be displayed at the Feb. 26 MTA Board of Directors meeting. Media audiences will be truly delighted by what the precocious little kids from Ann Elementary School draw this day - visually stunning concepts that are quite practical and refreshing. Your presence will make this a day to remember for the community, school, children and parents.
