MEDIA ADVISORY/PHOTO OPPORTUNITY

Los Angeles Kings take MTA's Metro Bus for tour of their new home at Staples Center

WHAT:

The Los Angeles Kings professional hockey team will take an MTA Metro Bus, wrapped in their new team advertisement, to the new Staples Center for a tour of the facility currently under construction. MTA operates a variety of Metro Bus lines that will service the new Staples Center, scheduled to open in the Fall, 1999. Once the center opens, fans will find it easy and convenient to use public transit to get to the new center. MTA's Metro Rail system from Long Beach, the Wilshire corridor, Norwalk, El Segundo, downtown Los Angeles and Hollywood will also service the new center with a convenient stop at the Metro Blue Line's Pico and Flower Street Station.

WHEN:

Monday, September 14, 1998
4:30 p.m.  (Approximate time)

 (The MTA Metro Bus is scheduled to arrive at approximately 4:30 p.m. from Woodland Hills with the LA Kings on board)

WHERE:

The New Staples Center
11th and Figueroa Streets
Los Angeles
