REGULAR BOARD MEETING
JULY 26, 2007

NAJARIAN MOTION

Metro rail gating has been an issue prior to and subsequent to the opening of the Red Line and has been discussed over the years by the MTA board. At the June 2007 MTA board meeting, a recommendation for a gating feasibility analysis was presented to the board for approval and failed.

MTA staff has presented a compelling argument why this recommendation should be reconsidered by the MTA board. I am therefore requesting that the feasibility analysis be brought back to the July 2007 board meeting for consideration.
