

No. 2 - Pacific Electric Railway, 1940

In celebration of the Long Beach Blue Line's 10th Anniversary and of the Long Beach Line's 100th Anniversary, the scheduling department of the MTA is pleased to present a series of Time Table covers inspired by the historic cover art of the Long Beach Line.

The Depression years of the 1930s were very hard on the Pacific Electric. Money was tight and the lines and cars were not maintained as well as should have been. By 1940 "PE" was abandoning many lines and scrapping many of the older cars. The Long Beach Line was one of the few that remained busy. The Time Tables now feature a "woodcut" with artwork showing the type of rail car or bus likely to be used on that line. This Time Tables shows a two-car train of the famous 1200-class high-speed interurban cars in the brand new "butterfly" paint scheme.
