
RRC Employees Attend 'Safety's First' Rollout

Electrician Helper Glenn Gatewood participates in The Safety Game, Monday at the RRC, answering a safety-oriented question asked by Powerplant Manager Cary Stevens. Behind Stevens, other judges, including RRC Director Mike Singer, took turns asking questions. "I think it went great," said Singer, of the campaign rollout. "A lot of people turned out—three or four hundred."

Facilities, Procurement and Regional Rebuild Center employees help fill a long line of co-workers' plates with food. Those in attendance at the Safety's First campaign roll out were treated to a barbeque after listening to Deputy CEO John Catoe describe the program and answer questions about the MTA's safety-oriented goals.
