Check it out: A one-stop shop for commuters at metro.net.

(May 28, 2008) With gas prices leaping over the $4 per gallon mark, commuters nationwide are exploring options they never considered before. Are you one of them?

The Commute Services web page offers a number of ways to reduce the pain at the pump while remaining mobile in Southern California. The page refers to itself as a “one-stop shop for commute information and resources.”

Here you can find a carpool partner, learn about incentives for ridesharing, and explore the Guaranteed Ride Home program for those who rideshare.

If you are the parent of a school-aged child, the Metro School Pool voluntary program offers tools to help parents form carpools.
