MTA TO UNVEIL CONCEPTUAL DESIGN FOR THE CHINATOWN STATION OF THE METRO BLUE LINE TO PASADENA

WHAT: An MTA design team will unveil its conceptual design for the Chinatown Station of the Metro Blue Line to Pasadena. The presentation follows a series of community meetings and the collection of questionnaires in English and Chinese in which Chinatown residents and business owners offered suggestions as to how to make their community's station both functional and aesthetically pleasing. The 13.6 mile long light rail line is scheduled to open in May 2001.

WHEN: Wednesday, March 12
5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m.
