

NEWS

October 14, 1999

CONTACT: GARY WOSK/MARC LITTMAN
MTA MEDIA RELATIONS
(213) 922-2712/922-2700
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

It's Getting Better on the Bus

MTA TO UPDATE MEDIA ON METRO BUS OVERHAUL

WHAT: A year ago MTA officials gave reporters this assessment of the Metro Bus system: "we got the message, it's broke so fix it." A spate of new buses, more service on the road, and better supervision are easing overcrowding and improving passenger comfort. Complaints are down. Performance indicators are up. Metro Bus service is even safer thanks to policing by LAPD and the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department. Still, MTA has a ways to go before the bus system is where it should be. LA. County Supervisor and new MTA Board Chair Yvonne Brathwaite Burke, MTA officials, law enforcement officials, bus operators and bus riders will update media on progress made during the past year to revamp the Metro Bus fleet and chart continuing remedial efforts.

WHEN: 10 a.m., Monday, October 18, 1999

WHERE: MTA Operating Division 3
630 West Avenue 28
Cypress Park near downtown Los Angeles
(cross streets Avenue 28 and Idell Street (Thomas Guide 594-J6)
parking lot located off of Idell Street

WHO: Yvonne Brathwaite Burke, L.A. County Supervisor/
MTA Board Chair
Julian Burke, MTA CEO
Allan Lipsky, MTA COO
Captain Vance Proctor, Los Angeles Police Department
Captain Marc Klugman, Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department
Art Alva, MTA Bus Operator
Michael Williams, MTA Passenger Advisory Committee

VISUALS: Backdrop of new CNG buses with king-size ads that read: "It's Getting Better on the Bus." Approximately 50 new buses in the immediate vicinity of event and the arrival of new CNG buses being delivered to division.

MTA-097

###