

NEWS

June 13, 2000

MEDIA ADVISORY

MTA SHOWCASES METRO RAPID; FIRST-OF-ITS-KIND BUS SERVICE JUST DAYS AWAY FROM START UP

WHAT: MTA will display one of nearly 100 new Metro Rapid buses which will serve two of Los Angeles' most congested corridors beginning June 24. The distinctive red and white buses will whisk passengers along a 16-mile route across the San Fernando Valley from the new Metro Red Line Universal City Station to Warner Center primarily via Ventura Boulevard, and along a 26-mile route from Santa Monica to Montebello primarily via Wilshire and Whittier Boulevards. Metro Rapid is expected to save passengers as much as 25 percent in travel time compared to regular bus service due to several features, including signal priority, fewer stops, interval-based schedules and the low floor configuration of the buses which allows for quicker boarding and alighting. Media will have the opportunity to ride on the Metro Rapid bus.

WHO: Rex Gephart, Metro Rapid Project Manager

WHEN: 10 a.m., Wednesday, June 14, 2000

WHERE: 10900 block of Ventura Boulevard, Studio City, between Riverton Avenue and Vineland Avenue, north side of street
Thomas Guide, 563 A-6

CONTACT: Ed Scannell, Marc Littman MTA Media Relations
(213) 922-2703/922-2700

###

MTA-069