Metro South Bay Service Sector Invites the Public to an Open House at the Arthur Winston Division in Chesterfield Square on Saturday March 27

The Metro South Bay community-based transit service sector will hold an open house at the Arthur Winston Bus Operating Division in South Los Angeles on Saturday, March 27. The event will take place from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at 5425 Van Ness Ave.

"We encourage the public to attend the open house and learn more about the Metro Service Sector as well as take a first hand look at the Arthur Winston Division that serves their community," said Metro South Bay Service Sector General Manager Dana M. Coffey.

The public can receive a community relations update on activities planned for the area, learn about Metro bus and rail safety as well as be entertained by various vendors and special characters that will be present for the kids. Other activities include performances by the Belmont High School JROTC drill team and an appearance by Metro Sheriff dog "Hero."

The Metro South Bay Service Sector Governance Council will be holding their regular monthly meeting at the Arthur Winston Division on the same day beginning at 9:30 a.m. which is also open to the public.

The governance council works closely with MTA's community-based service sector staff in studying and planning service to improve the efficiency of Metro bus operations in the South Bay area of Los Angeles. Entrance to parking at the division is on the west side of Van Ness Avenue, just south of 54th Street.
