L.A.'s Channel 36 To Air L.A. in a Day Via Metro Marathon

Heat up the popcorn and pull up a chair! The City of Los Angeles' Channel 36 is set to air a four-hour marathon of its cable television Metro Rail travelogue L.A. in a Day Via Metro on Sunday, May 9.

Think you've seen and done all there is to see and do in the L.A. area? Tired of driving there? Series co-hosts Heather Hopper and Jeff Cole take you on a lighthearted romp to some of the L.A. area's most interesting and entertaining sites and show you how convenient it is to get there via the four lines of the Metro Rail system.

The following is the schedule for the May 9 marathon:

- 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. – L.A. in a Day Via The Metro Gold Line
- 8:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. – L.A. in a Day Via The Metro Red Line
- 9 p.m. and 11 p.m. – L.A. in a Day Via The Metro Green Line
- 9:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. – L.A. in a Day Via The Metro Blue Line

Whether it's Universal City Walk, Olvera Street, Chinatown, Plaza Mexico, Old Pasadena, the Aquarium of the Pacific in Long Beach or many of L.A.'s other attractions near the Metro Rail system, L.A. in a Day Via Metro will take you there.

Produced by Gary Ghiaey in conjunction with Metro Public Relations, L.A. in a Day Via Metro airs quarterly on Channel 36, the government access cable channel owned and operated by the City of Los Angeles. The show also is made available to more than three dozen other cable television providers throughout Los Angeles County.
