FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Go Metro to Get A Deal On Tickets to 'Dirty Rotten Scoundrels' at the Pantages Theatre in Hollywood

What could be more appropriate than a steal of a deal to see the deliciously wicked con-man comedy "Dirty Rotten Scoundrels" at the Pantages Theatre in Hollywood, Aug. 15-27? Show a Metro pass or ticket and save $30 on selected Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday evening performances. To get there what could be more appropriate than a steal of a ride, with gas hovering at $3.30 a gallon? Take Metro and for a $3 day pass, travel to and from the theater in air-conditioned comfort.

Set on the French Riviera, "Dirty Rotten Scoundrels" follows two con artists as they attempt to swindle a young woman out of $50,000. Norbert Leo Butz will re-create his Tony-winning role as Freddy Benson for the Los Angeles engagement of the play, which is based on the film by the same name that starred Steve Martin and Michael Caine.

Getting to the Pantages couldn't be easier, since the Metro Red Line Hollywood/Vine station is directly across the street. To buy tickets, take Metro to the Pantages Theatre box office, 6233 Hollywood Blvd., and show a valid Metro pass, Metro day ticket or Metro ID. Or use the promotional code -- Metro -- and order online at www.ticketmaster.com or over the phone at 213-365-3500 or 714-740-7878. Seating restrictions apply and the offer is subject to availability and may not be combined with any other ticket discounts or promotions.
