The Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority (Metro) will upgrade signal systems on a section of the Metro C Line (Green) this coming weekend, which will require the closure of three stations beginning Friday, Sept. 16, at 9 p.m. until the end of service, Sunday, Sept. 18, 2022. The upgrade signal work will allow for a smoother transition of trains coming in and out of the stations and train yards.

The three Metro C Line stations impacted will include Norwalk, Lakewood Boulevard, and Long Beach Boulevard stations. Metro will provide free bus shuttles to replace all C Line rail service between the Norwalk Station and the Long Beach Station, stopping at all affected stations.

The shuttle between the Aviation/LAX Station and LAX that isoperated by the Los Angeles World Airports will continue to run on its regular schedule.

Football fans planning to attend the Rams football game on Sunday Sept. 18 are advised to use the Hawthorne/Lennox C Line Station Park and Ride lot to connect with the C Line (Green) and minimize delays.

Metro apologies for any inconvenience to Metro Green Line patrons during this weekend closure. For the latest service updates, visit metro.net or follow Metro on Twitter@metrolosangles or metroalerts.

Editor's Note: Metro Operators are crucial to keeping LA moving. Metro is currently hiring more than 500 bus operators and is offering a $3,000 bonus for coming aboard. This is a great career opportunity. Metro offers competitive hourly rates starting at $23 with benefits that include health insurance, tuition reimbursements, paid training, retirement plan options and flexible working hours. Please encourage friends, family and community members to become a part of the Metro team that provides excellence in service and support and keeps our region moving.
