

INNOVATION

If you're like us, you get to work each day excited and inspired by the world of extraordinary transportation innovations happening all around us. Technologies emerge and evolve. Mobility platforms grow and connect us in new ways.

Groundbreaking partnership models are developed to address some of the most challenging mobility problems in America.

This is a space to focus on these innovations, the impact they could have, and how they might be used here in Los Angeles County. We want to move the conversation forward, amplify the ideas that excite us the most, and highlight what our Office is doing to take advantage of what the world has to offer.

INNOVATION SHOUT OUTS

Metro's Office of Extraordinary Innovation is tasked with identifying the best ideas in transit from around the country and around the world and evaluating them for implementation at LA Metro. Our central tool for accomplishing this is the Unsolicited Proposal Process, through which any private sector firm with a new idea can have it reviewed by experts at Metro. This tool would not be possible without the extraordinary talent and effort of the Metro staff who have lent their time and expertise to serve as part of an Innovation Review Team.
