

NEWS

MEDIA ADVISORY

February 15, 1995

MURALS BY LOS ANGELES ARTIST STUART VAUGHAN TO BE DEDICATED AT HOLLYWOOD RED LINE CONSTRUCTION SITE

WHAT: Artist Stuart Vaughan's twin murals, entitled "Digging the Red Line," will be officially dedicated at the Red Line construction site at Barnsdall Park in Hollywood. The mural, which is part of the mitigation effort during the subway construction project, depicts a cross-section view of the tunneling, with painted images of construction workers, equipment, passengers, and even a wedding party to symbolize the union of Metro Rail and the Barnsdall Art Park being created at the site.

WHEN: Thursday, February 16, 1995
10 a.m.

WHERE: Barnsdall Park north entrance
4808 Hollywood Boulevard at N. Berendo Street
Hollywood
(1994 Thomas Bros. Guide page 594, block A-4)

ATTENDEES: Stuart Vaughan, artist
Al Nodal, General Manager for Cultural Affairs, City of Los Angeles
Dr. Earl Sherburn, Director of Community Art Program, City of Los Angeles
Maya Emsden, Director of MTA Art for Rail Transit program
Ray Verches, MTA public affairs officer

CONTACT: Greg Davy, MTA Media Relations (213) 244-7048
Media Relations Number: (213) 244-6347

#

MTA-042
Vaughan.adv
GD:rp:02.15.95